Grounds of Suspicion

This transaction is a high-value cross-border remittance of INR 2,331,673.54 (equivalent to USD 27,491.0) from Anjali Menon in India to an overseas beneficiary. The system's internal screening has identified this as a 'high value' transaction. According to the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, transactions involving foreign exchange exceeding a specified amount or high-value remittances are classified as 'specified transactions'. Reporting entities are required to maintain records for such transactions for a period of five years. Given the transaction's nature as a high-value cross-border foreign exchange remittance, it aligns with the criteria for a 'specified transaction' and warrants further review to ensure compliance with regulatory reporting and due diligence requirements.
